

FCC should not ban equipment that ignores the "broadcast flag" copyright indicator in HDTV transmissions, because doing so prevents numerous important fair uses of copyrighted material.

Imagine a world, for example, where all news broadcasts were sent with the broadcast flag. It would, theoretically, be illegal to record the news, even for such fair uses as education and commentary.